COLORED PREACHER IN MIGHTY POOR BUSINESS.

When the clerk of the court called the name of Mrs. Mary Hart, Tuesday, October 29th, probably the oldest prisoner ever in the Desplaines street court was arraigned before Municipal Judge Torrisson. Mrs. Hart, 1858 Carroll avenue, is a Colored woman one hundred years old. She was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct on the complaint of D. J. Clemons, 3534 Vernon avenue, a Colored minister.

Knowing nothing about the trouble between Rev. Clemons and Mrs. Hart, but it seems to us that it was very unmanly on his part to have her arrested and dragged into court.

Mrs. Coleman was agreeably surprised when at an early hour her friends came in to remind her that God had spared her to see 76 years of age, being of a retiring nature as her daughter made no mention of the Day, she thought it had been forgotten, and decided to just let it pass by unnoticed but as she afterward remarked, "All things come to he who waits," those present were, Mrs. Taylor, 5628 Wabash, Mrs. Harris, 5208 State, Mrs. Beasley and daughter, 4719 Evans, Mrs. Pope, and Mrs. Johnson, 5402 State, Mrs. V. Johnson, Mrs. Scott, 5360 State, Mrs. Howell, 4315 Calumet, Mrs. Tolkins, 5124 Dearborn, Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Parish, 5208 State St., dainty refreshments were served and a pleasant evening spent, Mrs. Pearl Randolph presided at the piano.

CORNELIUS J. DOYLE.
Popular With All the Citizens Throughout this State and Republican Candidate for Secretary of State of Illinois.

Taft And Sherman To Win The Colored Voters Will Stand by The Grand Old Party

BY PHIL H. BROWN ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF PUBLICITY. REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE AUDITORIUM HOTEL, CHICAGO.

The end of the most interesting presidential contest the nation has witnessed since the celebrated Jefferson-Burr contest of a hundred years ago, brings the Colored men of the country—in the North and South alike—face to face with the political crisis promised in 1896, when the bourbon South began the insidious campaign for the subjugation of the Colored citizen—a campaign, as all men now see, that culminated in the amazing attitude of Theodore Roosevelt, and in the bold and wicked daring of the captains surrounding him, who are notorious no less as enemies to a democracy to include all men of all races than as buccaneers on the high seas of political plunder.

Six weeks ago Colored men had political blind staggers. They saw all things and discerned nothing. They heard a name and saw a form. They did not realize that that name, once a sign of justice, was become a byword in the seats of the dishonored; and that form, once a majestic figure, was now but a shadow of a mighty man!

Theodore Roosevelt, in the first blush of a new political stroke, appealed to the imagination of the great mass of Colored people. But as his plans and purposes unfolded themselves before the people, under the logic and fearful eloquence of leading Colored men, aroused for their people's sake, Mr. Roosevelt's part in the chief political conspiracy of the century became clear.

Zeal gave way to thought, and thought did its work. From Santa Cruz to Nahant, and from the tell-tale waters of Niagara to El Paso, Colored men are now in dread battle against two forces of evil arrayed with like power against them and against their children—Mr. Roosevelt and his cohorts on the one hand, and on the other, the ancient enemies of the state, the party wearing the label of Democracy, but really floating the flag of oppression.

The charge has often been made that Colored men follow personalities—moving figures in the political arena—and that they care little for platforms and principles. That this charge is without foundation is seen in the almost unanimous rejection by Colored men of the principles of the Progressive party—particularly of a platform that includes a pledge to every cause save the cause of the American Negro—and their return to the principles and platform of the Republican Party, that has stood unmoved against all the changing years, and that now suffers the bitter opposition of the voters because the party leaders refused to betray or desert the Colored Republicans of the South.

Colored men know that the woeful possibilities of the Initiative, for by that sign the Democratic party in the South, twin-devil with the Progressive party, disfranchised the Colored men of the South, starting in Mississippi in 1890.

Colored men are alive to the evil consequences of the Referendum, for under that star the ignorant white electorate of the South put their seal of approval upon the crimes of the Democratic constitutional conventions that had annulled the spirit and degraded the letter of the amendments to the organic law.

Colored men understand the significance involved in the acceptance and adoption of the Recall, for they have seen the judiciary of an entire nation tremble when they should be strong in the law against the ignorant wrangle of the mob. Colored men are aware that the property and personal and political rights of the Negro race would in no wise be secure or sacred if a Recall by the prejudice-drunk populace awaited a judge who dared to be true.

These are principles, eternal principles, and Colored men everywhere are awake to them, their importance, their significance and their possibilities. Booker T. Washington, himself a great Republican, and an ardent advocate of the re-election of President Taft, is right: the interest of the Negro everywhere is one, and he is again right when he boldly takes his place under the Republican banner as the safest shelter from political storm.—Adv.

HON. JOHN E. MILHOLLAND,
CHAIRMAN OF THE NATIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE CONSTITUTION LEAGUE.
Strikes At Joseph Medill Patterson "The Tribune" Chicago And Booker T. Washington.
The Hon. John E. Milholland, chairman of the National Executive Committee, of the Constitution League of the United States, with headquarters in New York City, which has for its motto, "Equality of Rights is the first of Rights," strikes at Joseph Medill Patterson, "The Tribune" Chicago, Illinois, the copy of the telegram following and also the copy of the letter to Booker T. Washington, respecting the Jack Johnson affair.
Philadelphia, October 25, 1912.
Joseph Medill Patterson,
"The Tribune,"
Chicago, Ill.

If you can persuade the Governor to call out State Militia, I might try to induce President Taft to mobilize the Army in Cook County, and the Fleet on Lake Michigan. This with the Attorney General in personal charge of Federal prosecution would possibly protect chaste Chicago, and immaculate Minneapolis from the demoralizing influence of that Hell leathed creature, Jack Johnson, whose primary offense of failing to get himself born white, has been supplemented by daring to become the gamest and most scientific fighter since Castor and Pollox, and finally, by venturing upon a love affair without the consent of all the Common Councils and Boards of Trade in Illinois and Minnesota.

The spectacle of two great American cities lashing themselves into the fury of a Georgia lynching mob, over an alleged offense as deplorably common among whites, as campaign lying, is a record exhibition to this old gray world of canting hypocrisy, especially, on the part of a Nation with three millions uneducated, quondams and octarons among its native born population, and that has made wife swapping and divorce an established institution. As a display of medieval race prejudice it tips up to the Jew baiting of King John's time in old England. It disgraces the most backward civilization. It is contemptible beyond ex-

THE HONORABLE ANDREW RUSSEL'S LETTER TO THE REPUBLICANS OF ILLINOIS.

The honorable Andrew Russel, Republican candidate for State Treasurer of Illinois, has addressed the following letter to the Republican voters of this state:

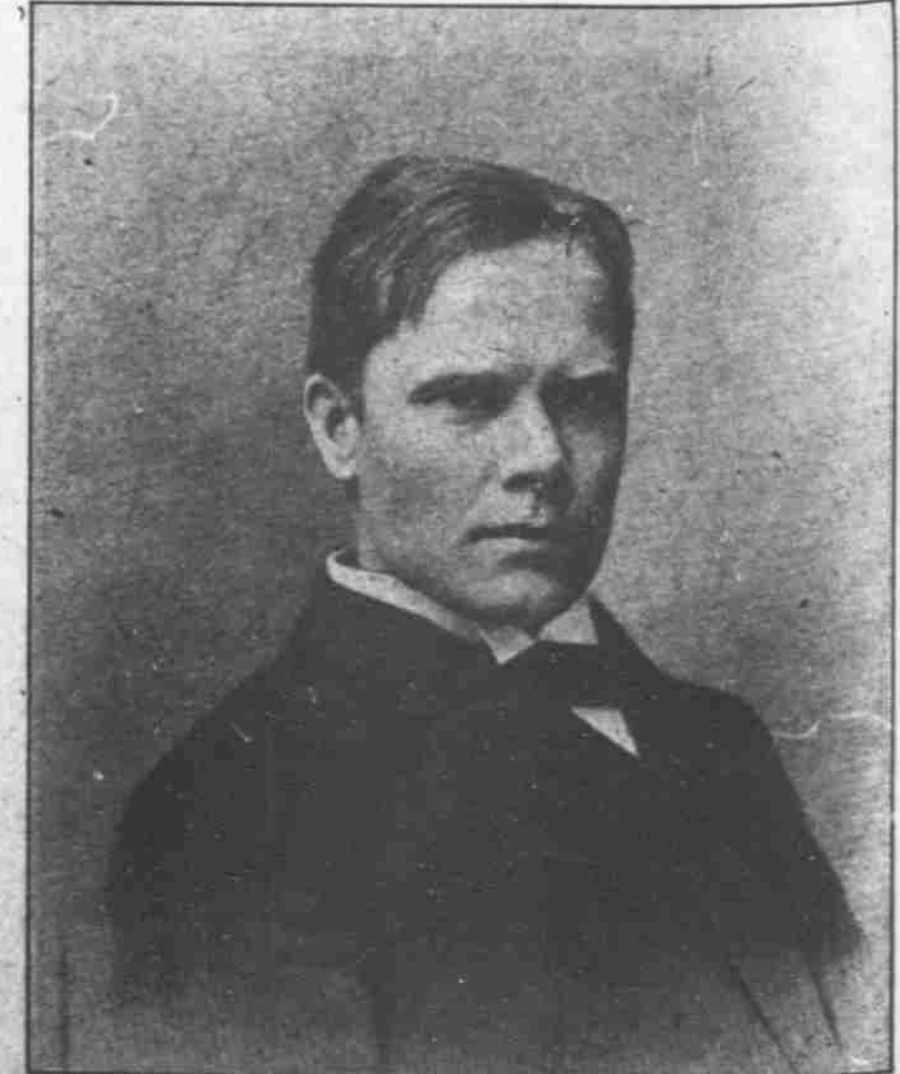

Dear Sir:
After a vigorous campaign, I was selected on April 9th at the state-wide direct primary, as the standard bearer of the United Republican party, for I am, State Treasurer.

There is and has been no complaint as to the fairness of this primary, and anyone desiring to be a candidate for any office had at that time the opportunity to present his name. It thus seems to me, from a strict sense of justice, that the candidates who were successful at said primary should be the ones who are voted for at the election on November 5th.

Believing that you will take this view of the case, and trusting that you will support me at the coming election,

Very truly yours,
ANDREW RUSSEL.

HON. WILLIAM SULLIVAN.
The Great Champion of the Rights of the Plain or the Common People and the Next Democratic Governor of the Empire State.
